

Famous scientist challenge

NAME:

Instructions

In this task you are going to research some famous scientists. This will include facts about when they were born, when they died and what they are most famous for. You also have space to put in a famous local scientist (we have lots of excellent Scientists from the North East!)

The person that produces the best fact sheets for the scientists will win a prize.

Some things to think about:

- Some scientists have done many important things, so choose just the most important one for the fact box.
- You must put the information in your own words rather than just copying it out
- Make note where you get your information and include it in your fact sheet. E.g. "Joseph Lister developed antiseptic to make surgery safer (From Wikipedia)
- Don't just use one website – like Wikipedia! The more places you research the more interesting your facts will be and you will be more likely to win!
